

My Story

I was saved and baptized when I was 9 years old. Although a long time ago, I still remember the feeling when I accepted Jesus and I truly believed I was saved; however, I was still in my “age of innocence” and had not yet eaten from the tree of good and evil. As best I can recall, my “innocence” ended around the time I made a left hand turn on my way to the baseball field and knocked on the door of the House of the Rising Sun which changed my life forever.

It was at that moment in time I stopped walking with the Son and the Father, and started running with the devil chasing the pleasures of the flesh.

I have always been embarrassingly blessed. Great education, great wife, successful career, all of it. But I always felt emptiness and a desire for the next best thing. I believe there was a large percentage of people who were more materialistic than I was; however, I did definitely buy into the “American Dream” matrix and based happiness by my accomplishments and what I was able to materially provide for my family.

For the most part, I raised my kids in Church and I know today it was a good thing to do besides what I have come to find out and believe. Despite what I know about Christianity and the Church now, it did make me and my family aware of Him. But I knew there just wasn’t something right. No matter how much “Church” I tried to play, I never really saw or felt the Spirit in my heart and soul. But oddly, I could always feel the Father on my heels even when I was the farthest from Him.

Fast forward to 2020 three to six months before the election. I was a Platinum MAGA Chump card holder. House, car, shirts, hats, etc. pledging allegiance to America, Chump, and the Father (from a once saved always saved wishful thinking kind of way).

One day one of my nephews said something along the lines that he could not believe I bought into all of the propaganda. There is no right and left, red and blue, donkey and elephant. All the world is a stage and each must play his or her part. I was like what are you talking about. All they do is bash that man and all he does is fight for us. We engaged in an interesting conversation (I thought he was nuts and had joined a cult or something) for a while. I listened to his rhetoric (like a loving uncle would) as he spewed out words like controlled opposition, predictive programming, Project Mockingbird, MK Ultra, etc. After the discussion, I set out to prove to him how wrong he was and try and talk sense into him out of love and concern.

I am now proud to say that others see me the way I saw my nephew that day. Out of mind and possibly in a cult (the pastor who baptized me hinted at that when I tried to share what I have now come to see to be the truth). I can relate to how the disciples felt in Acts 5:41. The Truth will certainly set you free.

So, for the next couple of years, I kept my eye on Chump and began researching. I am not going to go into all that I researched because that is a different topic for a different time. But ultimately, I stopped watching the news, secular TV in general, stopped following sports, and spent the majority of my spare time digging for truth (both earthly and spiritual). It became intoxicating in a healthy, spiritual way. I began to feel closer to the Father the more I learned who He is for myself.

After a short time, it became blatantly apparent how much the world worshipped “Satan.” Another topic for another time. But it is important to acknowledge it became obvious to me we are in a spiritual battle, not a political one.

I threw my arms up, closed my eyes, and leaned back in my chair. Choking back my tears and calling out in my mind Father why have you given me so many chances compared to others living similar lives. Instantly, my mind was flooded with revelation. I heard Him speak to me you just answered your own question (I believe that was in the reference to me thinking it unfair that he never gave up on me).

Then I saw me being baptized when I was 9 years old and heard the words preferential treatment. Then I saw my grandmother who was always reading her Bible and as I saw her, He asked me, what do you think she prayed for. Instantly, I saw the faces of my siblings and my cousins.

For the next couple of weeks, He constantly finished many of my thoughts. I remembered praying where do I start. Instantly, He said Job. The next few sections reflect the knowledge the Father directed me to focus on as we started our walk together.

My Journey with Job

It became very apparent early on in my study of Job, we are Job. And it is not up to us to question who He does or does not show preferential treatment to. The accuser's mission is to prove to the Father we are not worthy to share His glory and love. The accuser is given allowances to prove his point, but the Father ultimately has sovereignty on what the accuser can and can't do. We are not to question Him.

Why are we Here

Next, he led me to focus on developing my own belief systems of why we are here, who He is, who we are.

First and foremost, we are here because I Am can. He is Yah, the Great I Am, and He can do whatever He wants. He is the one and only true living Elohim.

We are here for His pleasure to learn to love Him because He first loved us and to have a genuine relationship with Him in an In the Garden kind of way. We are here because He wanted an earthly family to compliment His heavenly family.

However, he has already had to kick a 1/3 of his heavenly creations out of Heaven due to family drama and such drama disappoints and displeases Him. So, we are tested (we are Job) to see if we are worthy of the reward to grow his heavenly family and spend eternity with Him and his Son.

He gives us free will to determine if we want to spend eternity with Him or if we want to perish (cease to exist and soul destroyed by fire). It is about the reward (eternal life with Yah) not about punishment (eternal conscious torment).

We are here to reflect His image and to glorify and enjoy Him forever.

Who is I AM

I Am is not a Narcissist

Early on, Father guided me to explore the narrative that He demanded we worship Him or He would damn us to conscious torment for eternity in Hell.

Growing up in a Baptist church, I was led to believe we either die and spend eternity in bliss with God (Yahuah) and Jesus (Yahusha) or in eternal torment with Satan and his/her demons. However, I had never really investigated the topic for myself thru extensive biblical research until 2023.

Based on my research, there appears to be three prevalent doctrines regarding Hell:

1. Traditionalism (ongoing conscious torment)
2. Universalism (all will be saved in the end)
3. Conditional Immortality (if follow Christ eternal life, if not perish (annihilated) in lake of fire)

Of course, each doctrine has proponents who say their view is the biblically correct one and every pastor I have ever had preaches eternal conscious torment by hell fire as if it is a fact with irrefutable evidence. However, no one on this side of the veil knows for certain and I find it concerning that pastors preach their belief with conviction without at least sharing other viewpoints and urging their flock to investigate and discern for themselves. This applies to most doctrines the church teaches. Thus, the deceived become deceivers which is by Satan's deceptive design.

Personally, after extensive Bible study and what I believe has been continuous guidance from the Father, I have come to passionately believe the Conditional Immortality (Annihilationism) viewpoint with an extremely high percentage of confidence based on the scriptures in Appendix 1.

The traditional doctrine/narrative attacks and questions the character of the Father. The teaching of eternal torment paints Yahuah (Yah) as a narcissistic creator who we either bow down and worship or He will consciously punish us for eternity. This serves "Satan" by turning seekers away from Yah to atheism and "religions" that promote false truths because they do not believe a loving God would torment someone for eternity for not believing in Him.

- Sidebar: Luciferians justify "Satan's" fall and paint him as a hero for rebelling against Yah for this reason. "Satan" has his minions convinced that he stood up to Father for us.

From Genesis to Revelation, there aren't any scriptures that say Yah will torment sinners consciously for eternity because Yah never said that. The contrasts to everlasting life utilized are die, destruction/destroy, and perish. To say otherwise is slandering Yah and bastardizing his character. John 4:24 proclaims that Yah is a Spirit that must be worshipped in spirit and in truth. I do not believe we can have an authentic relationship with the Father if we do not truly know Him and worship Him as He has commanded. We know this is not the Father's character because He never said this (it is not in scriptures).

Many atheists proclaim they don't believe in a "loving Father" who would cast His children into eternal torment for not obeying Him. They state that a god who would do this is not a god worthy of worship and I concur with this. Yah wants children in His family to worship and fellowship Him out of love, not out of fear and manipulation.

Eternal torment results in focusing on the punishment instead of the reward (eternal life in the presence of Yah). Once we acknowledge that Yah gave us life and is simply offering us eternal life with Him if we accept His grace through Yahusha, His true character of love, holiness, righteousness, and justice cannot be debated.

- Sidebar: When you look at John 4:24 along with Hosea 4:6 and Matthew 7:13-14 when Jesus says narrow is the way and few shall find it, I strongly believe he means a FEW. Not just less than half. Because Yah is only offering us a gift (eternal life) and not a punishment (He gave us life and a chance at eternal life and thru free will we determine if we will accept it or not), He can be as selective as He chooses with His love and righteousness without question.

So, I believe a few are Noah few, Lot's family few, Job few, etc. and not 20%, 30%, 40%, etc. I am sincerely grateful He has given me a chance at eternal life with Him and a fervent desire for Truth. Regardless of my future, I want to find and share the Truth with anyone who is seeking Him and is for Team Carpenter and against Team Masons/Synagogue of satan.

Knowing that I am not going to be consciously tormented in the lake of fire (when taught we burn in Hell, they did not even get that right), I hunger for the truth in the hopes of sharing it and building Yah's kingdom even if I do not make it.

Many point to the parable found in Luke 16: 19-31 for proof of conscious eternal torment even though the questions/scenario Yahusha was addressing was not regarding what happens when we die.

Please refer to this article that thoroughly and biblically debunks this position in my opinion. It is important to note that I produced the same perspective for the same reasons as the author of this article before I ever came across it. The first time I read this article was as I was writing this. I searched out an article based on my truth for the sake of time. My position regarding eternal conscious torment and the lack thereof was not motivated/influenced by it.

I do believe in Hell (the grave), and I do believe in the lake of fire (the crematory). And I do believe there will be weeping as lost souls wait their turn to be cast into the lake of fire. I am also convinced there will be pain and anger (gnashing of teeth) as souls are annihilated and realize the eternal mistake (nothing is more eternal than no longer existing) they have made. I do not believe souls have physical teeth to grind and I do not believe Yah would consciously torment the average sinner/non-believer.

This is how I interpret John 3:16: He created us to be with Him from nothing and has provided us a way through Yahusha, His Son, to abide with him forever if we show that we love Him and His Son by obeying His commandments. If we do not want to obey and worship Him, He simply puts us back as he found us (nothing). Please refer to the Complete Jewish Bible for what I believe is a more accurate translation of John 3:16. Hebrews 11 defines the type of trust referenced in John 3:16.

Be still and know that he is your Elohim and open your heart to Him. Do you really believe he would give us free will and then torture his creations that do not do His will? The same Elohim that sent His son to bear our shame and take on all of mankind's sin (past, present, and future) so we could be with Him and He could be with us? The lack of scriptures to support this false narrative gives me confidence it is a slanderous attack against the Father's true character and love for his children.

His Name

Exodus 20:7 "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain." Taking His name in vain means to render it meaningless. We have been deceived over the centuries with the ineffable name doctrine to the point people are divided on what His name is and/or how to pronounce.

- To take something in vain is to make it meaningless; they disguised what they were doing thru the ineffable name sham and now we don't really know which pronunciation is right.
- God and Lord are titles, not names.
- God is used in all religions...designed to help transition to one world religion...ultimately argue we are all talking about the same Elohim.
- Our Bibles use Lord instead of Yahuah...God and Lord are titles, not names...Lord comes from old English and it is one who had a rank in the highest class who had control over a portion of land granted from a King. Anglo Saxons were pagan.
- Most important word in all of creation for all times has been hidden and forgotten how to be pronounced; most used name in scriptures replaced with pagan titles.
- Ineffable Name Doctrine...name is too Holy to speak...translators adopted modern day Judaism and used Lord (Baal) and God.

- Baal is equal to Lord in Hebrew Truthseeker on X: "This is a scene from 'American Horror Story' where the last words of one of the witches before being burned alive at the stake are none other than "Balenciaga!" https://t.co/SC8wQ04eOk" / X
- God's name: YHWH, Yahweh (?), Yahuah (Yah).
- Jesus' name: Yahusha (Yah Saves is Jesus real name) Yeshua (Joshua is the closest translation not Jesus).
- Yah led Israel out of bondage so all nations would know His name.
- There is power in the Father and Son's names...we are told to call on their names in specific instances including for salvation.
- If I visited Israel, they would call me Ron not the Hebrew equivalent...I would not know who they are talking to; all other gods are called by their known names from their language (i.e. Baal, Zeus, Isis, etc.).
- How can we have a relationship with the Father or the Son if we don't know their names; how do we know Him if we don't know His name?
- How are we saved in their name if we don't all upon the right name?
- Satan is the same word used in Hebrew and English; yet, they felt the need to change Yahusha which means Yah Saves to Jesus which does not mean Yah Saves.
- Jesus does not mean Yah Saves which is the name the angel told Mary to call Him.
- He tells us to call on His name...His name is worthy to be praised.
- Sing praises to His name.
- The name Jesus is < 400 years old. Whose name did they call on before they invented the name Jesus?
- Yah led Israel out of bondage so all nations would know His name.
- Halleluyah...Praise Yah!
- Allah means God...will use this to convince us we are serving the same Elohim.
- Who benefits if we don't call on the name of the Yah?

What Age are We In

Before I stumbled across the obvious Truth in 2024, I believed in dispensationalism just like a properly indoctrinated Baptist believer would. I was stuck in the Left Behind (pre-trib rapture), State of Rot Child is God's Chosen People, and Jesus is returning soon propaganda/façade.

Who is really the god Christians are worshipping?

- Halloween, Easter, and Christmas are all pagan holidays that are really satanic worship based on their roots and should not be honored in the church (neither the spiritual church or the "church" building).
- Deuteronomy 12: 29-31, Jeremiah 10: 1-5; Ezekiel 8: 5-18 support that at best these pagan holidays no matter how we spin how we look at them are vain worship at best; salvation impactful at worst (choosing traditions of man and what we want for what Yah has commanded us).
- Easter, Christmas, and Lent all have origins in Tammuz worship.

- Yahusha was born around September (possibly 9/11). He could not have been crucified on a Friday and raised on Sunday because the sign of Johah required Him to be in the grave for 3 days and 3 nights. Also, the Bible indicates the tomb was empty when it was still dark (sunrise service is sun worship).
- If we celebrate any holidays to worship the Father or the Son, we should be celebrating the Jewish feasts...Yah indicated Passover was to be celebrated forever and then the Catholic church outlawed celebration of Passover and replaced it with Easter worship at the same time they changed Yah's weekly sabbath from Saturday to Sunday.
